Success in your work will be greatly increased if the 3Rs are similar. In other words, if the requirements of my job are the same as my strengths that give me the highest return, and doing those things brings me great pleasure, then I will be succesful if I act on my priorities.

The above comes from John Maxwell's teaching on Priorities. In "Developing the Leader Within You, Developing the Leaders Around You", Nashville; Nelson Books, 1993, p26-27
